Consent Form

Along is a free teacher-student connection builder that helps drive student engagement and motivation in the classroom. Along helps to quickly build the strong ties needed to create and maintain trust year-round so that students feel comfortable sharing about how they're experiencing the classroom environment. We provide teachers with research-informed questions, tools, and insights to help them get to know their students better as individuals and as learners in order to create engaging, inclusive classrooms.

Here's how it works:

1. Teachers choose from a mix of research-informed questions (open-response and scaffolded) or write one of their own to share with students. Students then respond—sharing about themselves and their classroom experience.
2. Once students have responded, the educator reviews individual responses as well as class-wide data, with support from Along in reflecting on what students want and need.
3. Using insights and suggested next steps from Along, the educator then responds to students and makes adjustments to instruction to cultivate an inclusive environment—showing students their voices are valued.
